The transportable solution...

REAL
HOMES

You might never guess from the photographs that these stunning homes are transportable. Yet they comply fully with the Caravan Act as mobile homes, which means they are exempt from Building Regulations and BS3632 designs are zero rated for VAT.

And they are the only mobile homes available in the UK to Norwegian Log's high standard of log construction. Norwegian Log transportable homes do not use cladding or boarding. They are real solid log throughout, including internal walls, with attractive vaulted ceilings. They offer so much more than caravans, chalet-vans, prefabs or huts.

Your home...

If you already have an ordinary mobile home, you would probably be glad to move into something more spacious and comfortable. Or perhaps you have a CLD or other permission specifying a mobile home or timber structure, and you are now choosing your new home. Norwegian Log have the home for you, whether you are a single resident or have a growing family.

These transportable homes are free from VAT and Building Regulations, and they can be delivered quickly, ready to move into in just weeks from your order. And of course, they provide the reassurance of knowing you have real solid log around you, whatever the weather.

The key advantages...

MOVE IN WITHIN WEEKS

Although your Norwegian Log home is manufactured to your specific requirements, the process is so quick and efficient that it's usually just weeks from ordering to moving in.

Rural employers...

Many employers in the countryside are faced with the problem of providing comfortable accommodation to retain good workers. Or offering a home to family members - retired parents for example.

The traditional solution is a caravan or similar, but why choose something that has to be replaced every few years when you could own a solid asset instead? The alternative is a Norwegian Log transportable home, which meets the requirements of NPPF Paragraph 55 for rural development, your CLD or other permission specifying a mobile home or timber structure.

These high-performance solid log homes keep maintenance and running costs low, helping to minimise your overheads. And their classic Scandinavian styling means they can be located unobtrusively in virtually any environment.

The key advantages...

INDEFINITE LIFESPAN

Norwegian Log homes last indefinitely with only minimal maintenance - remember that there are log buildings in Norway more than a thousand years old!

Holiday & second homes...

If you thought a caravan was the only option for your holiday home, we have good news for you. Because just about anywhere you can site a mobile home you can have a Norwegian Log transportable home. Classed as mobile homes (making them VAT-free, for example), these homes are manufactured in real solid log. This gives them a high level of natural insulation, so you can spend all of the year in comfort in your holiday home. And if you decide to let out your second property - an increasingly popular option - Norwegian Log's visibly higher quality and timeless good looks mean you should be able to maximise your income.

The key advantages...

PROVEN INTERLOCKING SYSTEM

Norwegian Log's precision-cut interlocking system produces strong, rigid, draught-free homes that need only minimal maintenance.

Leisure developments...

Norwegian Log's wide range of transportable cabins and second homes can create rewarding opportunities for leisure developers. The attractive, low visual impact designs enhance any site, while the solid log combines high performance with low maintenance and running costs - just what you need to achieve premium pricing and higher occupancy all year round. And these comfortable homes are also the answer if accommodation problems make it hard to retain key staff.

Only a simple pile or Jackpad foundation is needed, so the whole process from ordering to occupancy is quick, simple and economical.

So why replace caravans every few seasons when you could enhance your site (and profits) with solid log homes like these?

The key advantages...

GEARED TO COMMERCIAL NEEDS

From 1 to 100+ units, from holiday homes to swimming pools and more, our capacity and range matches today's leisure business needs.

transportable log homes in real life...

Your home

Ed Mears and his partner Phara tried for years to obtain Planning Permission for a new home on their smallholding in rural Lincolnshire, but were always turned down. Then they discovered that their local authority would give permission for them to replace their old caravan with a Norwegian Log transportable home. They now have an individually designed double glazed Norwegian Log home.

Holiday & second homes

The Davies family replaced their mobile home holiday let, on a hillside overlooking Lyme Regis, with a Norwegian Log transportable holiday home. In an unexpected twist, they've moved in themselves, because they like it so much - and now they're letting out their old house instead!

Rural employers and agricultural dwellings

Sussex shepherds James and Sophie were very pleased when their employer replaced their draughty old farm caravan with a 3-bed Norwegian Log transportable home. The farmer is delighted with the low maintenance costs and the way his new asset blends unobtrusively into the countryside.

Granny annexe

Jackie and Arthur Chapman moved Jackie's elderly parents from a small house in Hertfordshire to a spacious, comfortable, and specially adapted Norwegian Log transportable home in the back garden of their Buckinghamshire home. Jackie's parents have their independence but help is now close at hand if needed.

Leisure developments

The Harleyford Estate, a holiday home development near Marlow, is a golfer's paradise. Harleyford offers excellent greens and riverside views of the Thames, and is just an hour from central London. There are now more than 120 Norwegian Log holiday homes on the Harleyford Estate built in four phases.

Kippford Lodges

Robin and Gail Aston were so pleased when their nine holiday homes sold in under a year, they began replacing some of their other holiday park homes with log lodges.

Are their purchasers happy as well? "Everyone is delighted, and we are looking forward to welcoming more new happy owners."

Greetham Valley Lodges, part of the Greetham Valley Golf and Conference Centre less than 5 miles from delightful Rutland Water is an innovative new development of eco holiday lodges.

Owners Frank and Robert Hinch decided to expand their business with holiday homes for sale and to let. They liked the idea of an environmentally responsible development.

Norwegian Log lodges appealed because they are made from a natural material from a sustainable source.

"Norwegian Log's lodges are a wonderful match for our plans and ambitions here at Greetham Valley," says Robert. "Spacious, comfortable, frankly luxurious, yet still environmentally responsible."
